

Employment - Information and Consultation

Flowchart: The employee information and consultation rules 2004

If you these criteria do not apply to you, you are not required to comply with the regulations. However, it is good practice to establish procedures for informing and consulting with employees. You may decide to negotiate an agreement with your employees as to how you will go about informing and consulting them.

Click here to see a flowchart showing the new procedure.